About the talk

Pune always had a tech-savvy and high-energy entrepreneurial ecosystem. However, Pune did not have a start-up fund. Most of the funds in India are in Mumbai, Delhi and Bangalore. Alacrity India, a SEBI registered VC fund is headquartered in Pune and would like to be associated with even smaller towns. They believe diversity strengthens the ecosystem with different kind of problem statements and entrepreneurs. Alacrity funds at a very early-revenue, or even pre-revenue stage, as that is where the need of the start-up for, not just funds, but mentorship, idea validation, market access are crucial. This is especially true of B2B – they believe Tech can disrupt almost any conventional industry vertical. And with SaaS (cloud-based) delivery mechanism, one can deliver globally from anywhere. As a fund Alacrity thus focus on B2B-SaaS Tech start-ups and fully support their incubatees and start-ups at Atal Incubation center in Baner through their ecosystem of mentors, advisors and corporate partners.
